Tribe’s land-into-trust bill reported favorably by Committee.

Pages 1-2
WASHINGTON – A bill that would bring several historic Cherokee sites back under the control of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians was marked up and reported favorably by a unanimous vote of the House Committee on Natural Resources on Wednesday, Jan. 17. The Eastern Band Cherokee Historic Lands Reacquisition Act was introduced into the U.S. House of Representatives by Rep. Charles J. Fleischmann (R-Tenn.) on Jan. 3, 2017, the first day of the 115th Congress. The bill will now move to the floor of the House for a vote at a later date.

During the markup session on Wednesday, several minor amendments were offered by Rep. Rob Bishop (R-Utah).

Following that session, Rep. Fleischmann said in a statement, “I was pleased to introduce the Eastern Band Cherokee Historic Lands Reacquisition Act last January after extensive conversations with the Eastern Band regarding the specific lands, which comprise a portion of the southeastern part of my district in Monroe County (Tenn.). After introducing the legislation, I received overwhelming community support as well as the strong support of county leadership. I remain steadfast in my dedication to protecting the historic home of the Cherokee Indians and promoting the economic development of the region. I thank the committee for taking up my bill, and I look forward to the legislation going to the Floor in the near future.”

According to the House Subcommittee on Indian, Insular, and Alaska Native Affairs, “The bill would place approximately 76 acres of Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) land in Monroe County, Tenn., on the shores of Little Tennessee River/Tellico Reservoir into trust for the benefit of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. Additionally, the bill places two permanent easements over TVA land to be held in trust.”

The 76 acres includes approximately 46 acres at the site of the Sequoyah Birthplace Museum, around 18.2 acres which includes the Chota Memorial and the Tanasi Memorial, and another 11.2 acres known as “support parcel”. Also included in the bill are permanent easements for the Chota Peninsula, which includes 8.5 acres and the Chota-Tanasi Trail which has 11.4 acres.

Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed, who testified on the bill last October, commented on Thursday, Jan. 18, “I had the honor of testifying before this committee in support of the bill a few months ago. In November, members of the Sequoyah Birthplace Museum Board, my staff, and former Congressman Heath Shuler traveled to Vonore, Tenn. to discuss the legislation with local leaders and to request local support for a Senate sponsor. The local mayors from Monroe County and Vonore then sent letters to Senator Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) requesting his support on a Senate bill. The next step in the process is.
Sneed, who testified on the bill last October, commented on Thursday, Jan. 18, "I had the honor of testifying before this committee in support of the bill a few months ago. In November, members of the Sequoyah Birthplace Museum Board, my staff, and former Congressman Heath Shuler traveled to Vonore, Tenn. to discuss the legislation with local leaders and to request local support for a Senate sponsor. The local mayors from Monroe County and Vonore then sent letters to Senator Lamar Alexander (R-Tenn.) requesting his support on a Senate bill. The next step in the process is a formal vote before the full House of Representatives and it being forwarded for consideration in the Senate."

Chief Sneed said the bill has been a long time coming, "This has been a long process and has included many people, but when The Eastern Band of Cherokee Historic Lands Reacquisition Act is passed and signed into law historic sites will once again belong to our people. This process was begun many years ago, but circumstances prevented this property from becoming trust land. It is my honor, as Principal Chief, to continue the work of those tribal leaders and community members who had this dream to bring those lands back into Cherokee control."

The Chota Memorial includes a full-scale representation of the Council House and sits in the spot of the original structure at Chota. The Tanasi Memorial, built by the TVA and the Tennessee Historical Commission in 1989, contains a monument with an inscription that states in part, "The site of the former town of Tanasi, now underwater, is located about 300 yards west of this marker."

Charlie Rhodharmer, Sequoyah Birthplace Museum director, noted the importance of the area, "Tanasi was the first Cherokee capital in what is now this area of east Tennessee. It was set up by Moytoy of Tellico in the late 1720s/1730s. Moytoy was the first 'emperor' (spokesman) of the Cherokee. By 1753, Chota had become the mother town of the Overhill. During the 18th century, Chota was the political and cultural capital of the Cherokee Nation. It was known as a peace town."

He added, "Chota was the longest existing Cherokee capital in the east before the Removal. Chota is center stage for Lt. Henry Timberlake’s visit. Timberlake wrote his memoirs of his visit to the Cherokee Overhill, which gives us an incredible insight into Cherokee life and culture in the mid-18th century. By 1788, the Cherokee had moved their capital south to Georgia."

Co-sponsors of the bill included Rep. Mark Meadows (R-NC), who has worked with the Tribe on many issues, as well as Rep. Paul Cook (R-Calif.), Rep. Walter B. Jones (R-NC), and Rep. David Roe (R-Tenn.).

Lady Braves alumni game could become reality

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Herschel Walker, Heisman trophy winner and one of the top college running backs in history, once stated, “I want to prove to people who sit on a couch and don’t do anything but criticize other people that, if you’re a true athlete or martial artist, you’re not old until you can’t get up and walk around anymore.”

Inspiring words from an inspiring man, and they ring true for those of us who once played sports every day of our lives, but now only get to play competitively once in a while.

Kelsey Jackson was a multi-sport athlete while at Cherokee High School and was a proud member of the Lady Braves varsity basketball team. The Class of 2011 alumnus is currently working to put together an alumni basketball game of former Lady Braves.

The exact details of the game haven’t been worked out yet as Jackson is just garnering interest and collecting information on interested players. To be eligible to play in the game, you had to have been on varsity for one year and be a graduate of Cherokee High School.

In a recent Facebook post, Jackson received numerous responses from women willing and quite eager to get back on the hardwood as a Lady Brave. If you’re interested, send your name and graduation year to her on email (jackson42512@gmail.com) or text/phone 788-4732.

Personally, I think this is an outstanding idea. It would be neat to see some recent stars such as Kendall Toineeta and Avery Mintz mix it up with Shennelle Feather (Class of 2003), Missy Crowe (Class of 1981), and others. Many of these women are still very active with a lot of them playing recreation league ball as well as tournaments.

Alumni games are quite popular around the country, usually being either football or basketball. There is even a website (www.alumnifootballusa.com) that helps schools organize alumni football games. These games usually include some type of fundraising aspect, and that might be a neat idea for this one as well as I’m sure it will garner a packed house.

I came across an article in the Chicago Daily Herald about an alumni game between two area high schools. In it, Jerry Fitzpatrick, Daily Herald sports columnist, wrote, “If an event is judged by the number of smiles it triggers, Wednesday’s Elgin vs Larkin alumni basketball event at Chesbrough Field House can only be considered a rousing success.”

The Lady Braves alumni game will involve all former Cherokee players divided into two teams. I think the format is fascinating and will be a great game. Look in the One Feather for more information as Jackson gets her idea off the ground. While a date is still undetermined, she did state that they’re looking at either late February or early March.

In the Daily Herald article, Dennis Moore was quoted as saying, “It was a great time. It’s cool getting back on the court with former teammates and guys I never actually got to get on the floor with that started before us and paved the way. And, this new court is awesome, too.”

That brings up another great point – many of the former Lady Braves will get a shot to play in the new Charles George Memorial Arena for the first time.

What a keen idea! Kudos go to Ms. Jackson for organizing this event.

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

At midnight, Saturday morning, the U.S. Congress could not come together on a federal budget which has resulted in a “shutdown” of “non-essential” government services. As of press time, it is unknown how long this shutdown will last, and therefore, the overall impact is also a question mark. But, thousands of furloughed federal employees are already sitting at home in uncertainty and thousands more are compelled to go to work without pay for the duration of the shutdown. Our front line of defense, our military men and women, are expected to do so without pay. Sure, everyone will be compensated via retroactive pay when the Congress approves funding, but I would imagine some awkward moments at the grocery checkout and some from phone calls from electronic payees.

The reason that the country is budget-less is that the Congress and Executive Office are taking stands on positions concerning international immigration, specifically and primarily, the legal status of those children who immigrated with their parents to the United States without going through the naturalization process of the country. A government policy, Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA), had been implemented to help address those who were brought to this country as children; to assist them in moving from illegal to legal status.

In 2017, the Executive Office rescinded the policy and Congress has been looking for alternatives for the DACA policy to continue to address the need. So now, factions within Congress and Executive Office are using the passage of the nation’s budget to bargain the fate of DACA, and the group of people that had received benefit from that policy, known as Dreamers.

While immigration and the proper treatment of those brought to the country illegally through no fault of their own are causes worth addressing, the use of holding the federal budget hostage exposes a very dangerous tendency of government leaders. The impact of a government shutdown is a hardship on federal workers, and on those who depend on the goods and services that the government provides. That’s you and me. Some services, payment of military death benefits and passport processing could be curtailed. The Smithsonian and National Zoo could close, as well as national monuments and parks. There are reports that the administrators of those facilities are trying to use existing funds to remain open.

While all of this is going on, immigrant futures and government workers livelihoods hanging in the balance, Congress and the Executive Office continue to get paid. That’s right. The law protects the salaries and benefits of Congress from being affected by a government shutdown. I wonder if that has anything to do with their willingness to let the government shutdown.

Don’t you think that Congress should not have protections that are not afforded to their constituents? Why is Congress exempted from a pay freeze during shutdowns? They could certainly handle doing without a few days, weeks, or months of pay better than a park service attendant. And, those we elect into public service should not be able to push their agendas standing on the backs of their constituency.

I hope that by time you read this, the budget standoff is over and everyone is back to work. I also hope that a reasonable resolution is found for the Dreamers. People’s lives and livelihoods should not become bargaining chips for government elitists.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might feel bolder as each new success falls into place. But caution is still advised through the end of the week. Until then, a step-by-step approach is best.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That cooperation you request could come at too high a price. Since few can beat the Bowive at being clever and resourceful, why not see what you can do on your own?

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Aspects favor a quieter time spent getting close to the people who are especially important to you. There’s always much more to learn and appreciate about each other.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The concerned Crab will act to resolve workplace misunderstandings before they get out of hand and cause more-serious problems. Co-workers rally to support your efforts.

LÉO (July 23 to August 22) What the Big Cat might see as a disturbing act of disloyalty might just be a failure of communication on both sides. Take time for mediation rather than confrontation.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be more patient with those who seem unwilling to accept your version of what’s right. The fact is, there’s a lot more to learn on all sides of this issue.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It should be easier to assess the facts you’ll need to make an important decision. But don’t commit if you still have doubts. There could be more you need to know.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your excitement level remains high as you continue working on that new project. Expect some setbacks. But on the whole, all will move pretty much on schedule.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It might be wise to be more prudent with expenses right now. But your financial situation should soon clear up, and you could be back shopping, happily as ever.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might prefer sticking with your current schedule. But some newly emerging information could persuade you to consider a change. Keep an open mind.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might want to reject a suggested change. But it could be wise to go with the flow, at least for a while. You can always return to your first plan if you like.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You’re bolstered by both the practical and poetic sides of your nature as you maneuver through some unsettled emotional situations. Things ease up by week’s end.

BORN THIS WEEK: People reach out to your generosity and wisdom, and consider you a treasured and trusted friend.
